"Grim and Tucker integrate vast personal experiences and serious scholarship across multiple global cultures and disciplines to produce keen, fresh insight for today's world. A compelling, inspirational, and hopeful look at a path to a meaningful and sustainable future."

—JANE LUBCHENCO, former Administrator, NOAA

"A must-read for anyone interested in the intersection of ecology, religion, and ethics, as well as in the role that religions could play in resolving the complex environmental concerns of today."

—ELEANOR STERLING, Director, Center for Biodiversity and Conservation, American Museum of Natural History

"An astonishingly comprehensive view of human relations with the natural world."

—JOHN COBB, Codirector, Center for Process Studies, Claremont University

"The almost unimaginable environmental challenge humanity faces—a daunting Gordian knot of science, plus ethical and moral values—demands ways forward. Those will be found at the intersection of science and religion. Nobody understands this thicket—so filled with hope, promise and complexities—better than John Grim and Mary Evelyn Tucker. Ecology and Religion lights the path forward."

—THOMAS E. LOVEJOY, University Professor of Environmental Science and Policy, George Mason University

"How wonderful to have the world's leading authorities on religion and ecology, John Grim and Mary Evelyn Tucker, offer this profound but accessible examination of the field just as the world's religions are entering their ecological phase. This book is more than a source of deep understanding—it is an inspiration."

—JAMES GUSTAVE SPETH, author of America the Possible: Manifesto for a New Economy

JOHN GRIM and MARY EVELYN TUCKER are Senior Lecturers and Research Scholars at Yale University. They are founders of the Forum on Religion and Ecology at Yale and series editors of Religions of the World and Ecology from the Harvard Center for the Study of World Religions. They won an Emmy for their film Journey of the Universe with Brian Swimme.
